Dragon climbing into the sky

Ama no Hashidate, one of the three most scenic spots in Japan, is a mysterious place formed by the sand spit extending about 3.6 km in the Miyazu Bay and the Aso Sea.

The sand spit is covered by approx. 8,000 Japanese black pines. When it is viewed in the Mata-nozoki way at the viewing platform in Ama no Hashidate View Land, the view looks like a dragon climbing into the sky. That's why the view from here is called "Hiryukan (view of the flying dragon)".

The blue-green scenery of the harmony of the blue sky and the sea never stops attracting visitors.

Ama no Hashidate View Land is an amusement park with a viewing platform with wonderful views.
